The outlaw dive-keepers have reacted the correct conclusion that there is to be no

"blow over" in the crusade which THE EVENING WORLD is waging against them in the public service.

Two facts clearly and unmistakably indicate this. Mr. Alfred Davis has posted a placard in one of the windows of the Excise Exchange, by which the public is informed that the former notorious den is to let, and Mr.

Frank Stevenson has dismantled the infamous "Slide" on Brecker street.

When the Excise Board on Monday next begins the consideration of the evidence collected by the police authorities against the outlaw dives, it will be provided with an excuse for retreating permanently from business. The fact that most of them have already closed the dive-annexes to their saloons will not serve to save their licenses to sell liquor.

Reputable liquor dealers are no less pleased than the general public at the success that has attended THE EVENING WORLD'S efforts to rid the city of the outlaw dive-keepers.

President Morris Teukaly, of the Central

Liquor, Wine and Beer Dealers' Association, said recently on the subject:

"I most emphatically declare that such places are a serious injury to the law-respecting House of Commons. The illegal traffic carried on in these dens causes a reflection on every honest man engaged in the liquor trade. That why I say we are all in favor of closing them up, and why we heartily approve of the fight which 'The Evening

World' is waging against them."

And the National Union of Bartenders at the

its Convention held in this city yesterday adopted the following resolution:

"Resolved, That we heartily endorse and approve the praiseworthy undertaking of 'The Evening World' in breaking up the dens of vice and moral degradation, and that we hereby express our unqualified appreciation of the immense benefit its fearless crusade has conferred on labor organizations, good morals and the public at large."

The dives are not all closed yet, but all will be closed when the crusade is ended.

IN TWO BOWERY RESORTS.

Buttner and Stajer Make a Further Change in Their Tactics.

Mr. Ignatz Buttner and Mr. Louis Stajer have been making some alterations in the manner of conducting their "den of iniquity" at 294 and 255 Bowery, respectively.

Both these dives were wide open last night, as usual, but there was a noticeable

THE SIGN IN MR. DAVIS'S WINDOW.

The card falls to state whether Mr. Peyer was actually permitted to continue to drink beer before he was ordered to leave.

At Mr. Stajer's there was a very light attendance and the crowd was quite orderly. Even the music was toned down, and towards midnight there was no singing whatever, the orchestra holding the house alone.

In fact about the only disorder that THE EVENING WORLD investigators noticed during their stay, was caused by an inebriated young man in a silk hat who had acquired a happy "jag," and wanted to see everybody else happy.

He evidently noticed the lack of singing, so he tried to supply it himself by accompanying the orchestra vocally and beating time with his hands. A colored man sat at the table with him, and occasionally the young man with the jag used the colored man's arm as a key-board.

At the entrance to Stajer's last night was a sign reading: "No lady admitted without an escort." Whether this was intended as a sign of respectability it would be hard to say. It is a fact, however, that women without escorts were admitted, and at one time Stajer himself was talking to no less than five, who had swarmed around him to console with him on the terrible "pounding" as he calls it, that THE EVENING WORLD has been giving him.

Business was even duller at Buttner's "Orpheum," at 294 Bowery, than it was at Stajer's, and when it was closed at midnight there were less than a half-dozen women to leave the place. The "Orpheum" were an air of respectability and perfect order was maintained for effect of course, so that policemen who might visit it in disguise could see that it was a "perfectly proper place."

But despite all this bluff, refinement and show, the reality is, it was easily evident that the "Orpheum" and Stajer's establishment were fully as bad as McTigue's assignation annex next door to Stajer's, and which has been closed.

Some of the dives that have been closed as a result of THE EVENING WORLD'S crusade were more disorderly than the "Orpheum" or Stajer's, so far as noise or boisterous conduct is concerned, but none were more pernicious in their influence.

The power for evil of these two dives is all the greater because vice of the worst form waits there for victims under cover of seeming respectability.

DAVIS'S DEN TO LET.

The Excise Exchange Goes the Way of Stevenson's "Slide."

Following close upon the announcement in yesterday's EVENING WORLD that none of New York's retired outlaws had removed the furniture and fixtures from their deserted dens excepting Mr. Frank Stevenson's Excise Exchange is offered for rent, making two dives that have not only been closed, but also abandoned as a result of this newspaper's crusade.

This announcement was first made in a window of the Excise Exchange itself, by means of a big card on which is printed:

THIS HOUSE TO LET
N. Peyer,
125 Grand st.

The house includes not only the ground floor, on which Mr. Alfred Davis's bar and assignation room business was recently carried on, but also the big room upstairs, which was elegantly fitted up as a wine-room and annex for the weather patrons of the den.

Mr. Peyer, who is now in the city, is the owner of the house, and it is believed that he will be able to find a tenant for it.

It is interesting to note that this is the first time since the closing of the "Orpheum" and Stajer's that a dive has been offered for rent.

It is also interesting to note that the house is located in a very desirable part of the city, and is well situated for business.

It is also interesting to note that the house is well equipped with furniture and fixtures, and is ready for occupancy.

NEW YORK, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 20, 1892.

CENSUS BILL PASSED, WAR CLOUDS PARTED.

It Goes Through the Assembly by 68 Votes to 55.State Senate Action Confirmed in the Contempt Cases.Resolution of Censure for Messrs.
O'Connor, Saxton and Erwin.[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
ALBANY, Jan. 20.—The Enumeration Bill has passed the Assembly by a vote of 68 to 55.

It now goes to the Governor for his signature.

Judgment of Contempt on Three Republican Senators Confirmed.

ALBANY, Jan. 20.—The Senate Judiciary Committee met this morning and decided to confirm the action of the Senate in placing Senators Erwin, O'Connor and Saxton in contempt and to recommend that they be censured and suspended until to-morrow morning.

Mr. Roosevelt, Chairman of the Judiciary Committee, presented the report to the Senate.

It affirms the right of the Senate to declare any of its members in contempt, reviews the case and closes with a resolution of censure as stated.

Mr. Wallin dissented and gave notice that he should submit a minority report.

Mr. Roosevelt moved the adoption of report and the resolution.

During the roll-call Senator Coggeshall reviewed the case, claiming that the Senators had been declared in contempt for refusing to vote for a bill the contents of which they had not had opportunity to examine.

He did not believe any legislative body had power to punish for such an offense.

The statute provides a penalty for disorderly behavior only. None of the three had been guilty of disorderly behavior. The action of the Senate was unprecedented, unwarranted and unjust.

Mr. McAlister dissented from every proposition made by Senator Coggeshall. The Senate until 1848 was the highest court in the State, and had full power to punish its members. Legal precedents quoted related persons not members of the Senate.

The three Senators had acted in a disorderly manner in refusing to obey the majority as a "bona fide" member of the Senate.

The resolution was adopted by a majority of 17 to 0.

The resolution and report were adopted by a party vote of 17 to 0.

NO FEAR IN WALL STREET.

Stocks Buoyant and a General
Rise in Prices.

WALL STREET, WEDNESDAY, JAN. 20.—There was a reaction in Wall street today. The depression of yesterday was supplanted by a strong and at times even a buoyant speculation.

The market was a regular specimen of the part of the shorts to cover and a very active demand prevailed.

The whole list advanced 1/2 to 3/4 per cent. The sales up to noon reached 215,000 shares.
